

MARTIN'S JURY CONTINUES ITS DELIBERATION

'Pittsburgh Hymie's' Fate Rests with Jurors Who Argue Hours

DEADLOCK IS SEEN
Four Options for Verdict Are Given by Court

CLEVELAND, April 3.—Failing to reach a verdict after six hours of deliberation, the jury in the trial of "Pittsburgh Hymie" Martin, charged with the murder of former Councilman William E. Potter, continued its sessions today in an attempt to determine the fate of the self-admitted whiskey-runner.

Silently, and apparently weary from the 10-day trial session, the jury emerged from the closeted room in the criminal courts building at 10:30 o'clock last night and were taken to a downtown hotel for a much-needed rest.

As the day's deliberations came to an end there was no indication on the faces of the jurors as to the possible outcome of the trial. It was quite apparent, however, that hostility in the group was lacking.

Several ballots were reported to have been taken by the jury in the six-hour session but nothing definite was forthcoming from the jury room as to how the votes were divided.

Just how long it would take for the jury to reach a unanimous decision, if one is obtained, was a matter for speculation. "Grapevine" reports indicated that the body was far from a decision but it was understood that the jury spent considerable time in pouring over the intricate records and exhibits presented in the trial session.

The jury of five women and seven men was given four options for a verdict by Judge Walter McMahon. They were: Guilty of first degree murder without mercy, which carries a mandatory sentence of death; guilty of first degree murder with mercy, which would mean life in prison without hope of pardon; guilty of second degree murder, which means life in prison with a hope for pardon, and acquittal.

Good Friday

Goodness as a quality of human character has been going out of style. The word itself, with its implications of gentleness and generosity of heart, is offensive to some of the highly educated philosophical realists who haven't yet perceived that much of what we call education is a process of unlearning. There are people who, feeling that they have discovered something new, insist that virtue of any sort is, after all, a myth or at best a matter of climate and environment.

Naturally, in view of all this, it might be supposed that Good Friday must lose its essential meaning. Yet this is not the case. Throughout the world today great multitudes will be arrested in the course of their affairs by a sudden example of unselfishness. At such a time people almost see the way to happiness. They seem to discern a new light and a new glory not merely outside the world but within themselves.

State Financial Statement Made

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The Bureau of the Census announces a summary of the financial statistics of the state of Ohio for the fiscal year ending December 31, 1929. The per capita figures for 1929 are based on an estimated population of 6,581,800. These statistics were compiled by Mr. Paul A. Mitchell.

EXPENDITURES
The payments for operations and maintenance of the general departments of Ohio amounted to $51,246,227, or $7.79 per capita. This includes $5,639,234, apportionments for education to the minor civil divisions of the state. In 1928 the comparative per capita for operation and maintenance of general departments was $6.79, and in 1918, $3.50. The payments for operation and maintenance of public service enterprises in 1929 amounted to $165,248; interest on debt, $808,056; and outlays for permanent improvements, $13,511,803. The total payments, therefore, for operation and maintenance of general departments and public service enterprises, for interest and outlays were $65,731,334. Of this amount $1,496,333 represents payments by a state department or enterprise to another on account of services. The totals include all payments for the year, whether made from current revenues or from the proceeds of bond issues.

Of the governmental costs reported above, $24,201,843 was for highways, $14,086,032 being for maintenance and $10,118,811 for construction.

REVENUES
The total revenue receipts were $78,527,215, or $11.93 per capita. This was $26,307,684 more than the total payments of the year, exclusive of the payments for permanent improvements, and $12,795,881 more than the total payments including those for permanent improvements. This excess of revenue receipts is reflected in reduction of debt; also in purchase of investments and increased cash balances, not shown in this summary. Of the total revenue receipts, $1,496,333 represents receipts from a state department or enterprise on account of services. Property and special taxes 33.9 per cent for 1918. The increase in the amount of property and special taxes collected was 78.6 per cent from 1918 to 1929, but there was a decrease of 34 per cent from 1928 to 1929. The per capita property and special taxes were $2.13 in 1929, $3.28 in 1928, and $1.41 in 1918.

Earnings of general departments or compensation for services rendered by state officials, represented 9.5 per cent of the total revenue for 1929, 9.6 per cent for 1928, and 11.9 per cent for 1918.

Business and nonbusiness licenses constituted 5.3 per cent of the total revenue for 1929, 4.8 per cent for 1928, and 4.3 per cent for 1918.

Receipts from business licenses consist chiefly of taxes exacted from insurance and other incorporated companies, the tax on cigarettes, and of sales tax on gasoline, while those from nonbusiness licenses comprise chiefly taxes on motor vehicles and amounts paid for hunting and fishing privileges.

The state's share of the sales tax on gasoline amounted to $19,931,241 in 1929 and $15,472,000 in 1928, an increase of 28.8 per cent.

There was no levy of the general property tax for state purposes except that for redemption of World War compensation bonds and that for the state building fund.

MARINES BEGIN REJUVENATION OF NICARAGUA

Report That Sandino Rebels Are Active Based As Untrue

LOOTERS ARE SHOT
Estimate of Dead is Between 1,000 and 2,000

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, April 3.—An organized relief machine under American auspices today assumed the gigantic task of dragging Managua out of the wreckage that followed in the wake of Tuesday's earthquake.

The expected arrival at Corinto of the U. S. S. Rochester, the hospital ship relief and additional physicians and nurses as well as food and medical supplies, assured the weary relief workers in the ravaged Nicaraguan capital that their efforts to ward off hunger and epidemic will prove successful.

RECEIVE CARGOES

With a dozen planes from the U. S. S. Lexington already piling in regular cargoes of medical provisions and food, and evacuating the badly injured on return trips, the medical staffs working tirelessly in the hot sun here found increasing assurance that an outbreak of pestilence would be prevented. Hundreds of the injured were shipped to Corinto and other points by train following the reopening of the line between here and that port.

The death toll remained as indefinite as ever, with no attempts made to identify the dead. Col. Frederick L. Bradman, commanding the marines, declared that as many as 2,000 have been killed when the city collapsed. However, President Moncada and Colonel Matthews of the Nicaraguan National Guards believed the death toll would not exceed 1,000.

ESTIMATE NOT MADE

An estimate of the injured has not been attempted by any of the leading officials. Digging squads so far have taken approximately 700 bodies from the ruins, but a large section of the wrecked city remains to be searched.

Common graves were prepared as hastily as possible for their disposal. Prevention of disease, it was pointed out, depends to a large extent on the speedy burial of the dead.

Doctors and nurses attended to the injured as fast as possible. Operating on the serious cases on tables set up in the marine barracks and few available shelters. Long lines of minor cases filed continually past the first aid stations established in the open throughout the stricken region.

SHOOT LOOTERS

American marines, guarding the city under martial law, shot two looters and prevented natives from interfering with a authorized searching squads. A rumor that followers of Augustino Sandino were preparing to attack the helpless city was discredited, marine officers assured local officials that even in the event of such an improbability, the bandit attack would easily be repulsed.

WETS COMMAND 183 VOTES IN SENATE, HOUSE

Plan to Force Referendum Measure on Congressional Floors Soon

GAINING STRENGTH

Roll-call Would Settle the Minds of Lawmakers

WASHINGTON, April 3.—Declaring that sentiment for a referendum on the prohibition amendment through state constitutional conventions is growing, the association against the prohibition amendment today claims 183 members of senate and house favor this action.

The association's claim which exceeds that generally made by the wets immediately following the election last November, includes many "conversions" since the nationwide vote, according to officials.

The election result generally was tabulated by both wet and dry organizations as giving the anti-prohibitionists about 140 votes in the house.

161 IN FAVOR

The association's latest tabulation shows 161 members of the house favoring submission of repeal of the 18th Amendment and 22 members of the senate.

Although the number falls short of a majority in either house, the number of house members favoring the referendum or repeal plan is regarded by the anti-prohibitionists as especially significant.

A movement is now under way to liberalize the rules of the house of representatives so that 100 members by petition can force a measure to the floor. If this is done, it appears the wets may be able to force a roll call vote which would "smoke out" members pursuing a middle course in the fight over liquor.

The claim of the anti-prohibition association is admittedly open to question upon a few names. Included in those favoring referring the amendment are members of the Illinois and Massachusetts delegations who have not specifically repudiated the results of state referendums.

SOME ARE SILENT

The wet ranks obtained some additions through party platform pledges and the liquor referendums in both states. Some members have declined to say whether or not they will abide by the vote of last November.

In making the claim of 161 members of the house, officials of the association against the prohibition amendment point out that they could count but 76 wets in the house in 1928 and but 15 in the senate.

The anti-prohibitionists expect to make further gains through the reappointment of congressional districts now under way in the states. They expect the dry districts to lose strength and the wet districts to increase their power.

BROTHERS FATE STILL WITH JURY

"Hanged Jury" is Expected by Spectators in Chicago Courtroom

OUT THROUGH NIGHT

Lingle Death Will Go Unsolved with Deadlock

BULLETIN

CRIMINAL COURT, CHICAGO, Apr. 3.—Bitterly debating the fate of Leo V. Brothers, accused of the murder of Alfred J. Lingle, Tribune reporter, the jury in Joseph Sabath's court was expected to be deadlocked.

CRIMINAL COURT BULLETIN

CHICAGO, Apr. 3.—Debating bitterly and deadlocked, the jury trying Leo V. Brothers for the murder of Alfred "Jake" Lingle, reporter, today had not reached a verdict.

Since the twelve jurors began their deliberations at 2:30 p. m. yesterday, they have striven vainly to decide whether the slain, attired St. Louis gambler, had life, death, liberty or no punishment.

DISAGREEMENT SHOWN

It became evident with the passing hour that the jury was disagreeing, and that there would remain unanswered that repeated question:

"Who killed Lingle?"

The presiding judge, Joseph Sabath, refused to permit the jury to leave their room until they reached the end of their deliberations.

After midnight today, after stating the facts of the case, the jury was put to bed throughout the night until a verdict was reached.

"They have had plenty of time, let them fight it out. If he gave instructions that he wanted, regardless of the hour, a verdict was reached."

Never in the history of the criminal court has a jury been deadlocked so long as this one. It heard the evidence in the case which grew out of the slaying of Lingle in a pedestrian tunnel here last June 9.

CROWDS WAIT

Crowds have maintained a vigil in the courtroom since the jury retired in the hope they might get some inkling of the verdict, but to no avail. Not one of the many professed to know what was going on in the jury room.

As the hours wore on after midnight, however, observers who had through the three-week trial expressed the belief the twelve jurors were not "hung" on the question of the degree of punishment, but of that of innocence or guilt. Even before the case reached the jury there were many predictions of disagreement.

UNCLE SAM'S DEFICIT TO TOTAL OVER EIGHT HUNDRED MILLIONS

WASHINGTON—Skidding over the crest of the fourth quarter of the fiscal year, Uncle Sam today started a precipitous financial toboggan slide to a probable deficit of around $800,000,000 June 30, the first time the government has been "in the red" since 1919 when there was a colossal deficit of $14,000,000,000.

The deficit June 30, however, will be the first in normal years since 1915, when the government went $62,000,000 in the hole, following small excess of expenditures over ordinary receipts during the preceding two years.

In the years 1917, 1918 and 1919, as a result of war and post-war borrowing there was an aggregate deficit of $24,869,000,000 creating the bulk of the public debt, which at the end of this year will be something less than $17,000,000,000, having been increased for the first time since 1919.

Between 1919 and 1930 the surplus accounts have amounted to nearly $4,000,000,000, the maximum having been $693,241,000 in 1921.

In 1925 and 1927 ordinary receipts exceeded expenditures by more than $600,000,000.

This year's huge deficit is accounted for chiefly by declining receipts, which for the entire year probably will be $800,000,000 under the $1,779,941,000 collected in 1930.

It appears the income tax loss probably will run to $500,000,000, with a total for the year of between $1,800,000,000 and $1,900,000,000.

Heavier expenditures due to the relief measures and to $112,000,000 of the adjusted service loans, also contributed to the deficit.

On the basis of the present situation the collection of income taxes for 1932 will be even smaller than that in 1931, and indications point to another deficit in next year. There is the reassurance of President Hoover that no tax increase will be recommended indicating the government will permit an increase in the public debt during the period of the emergency rather than to endanger business through a tax rate boost.

During 56 of the government's 139 years of existence since records were first kept in 1791, there have been deficit accounts. In 1791 there was a surplus of $149,886, when total ordinary receipts and postal revenues amounted to $4,510,000. The next year there was a $1,409,000. The government went through the War of 1812 without a deficit and during the Mexican war there was a deficit, while the government likewise was "in the red" during the Civil and Spanish American Wars.

P. R. R. ADDS TO PROPERTY

The Pennsylvania Railroad's investment in its road and equipment amounted last year to more than one and one-quarter billion dollars it was disclosed in the general balance sheet of the railroad made public today giving the financial condition of the company as of December 31, 1930.

More than $71,000,000 was added to the railroad's investment in road and equipment last year. Despite distributed business conditions and reduced revenues, these expenditures were the largest in many years.

Total investments in the company's road, equipment and other general capital expenditures, as shown by the general balance sheet, amounted to $1,165,631,158.19. To this huge figure is added $91,291,878.45 in road and equipment improvements on leased railway property, making a total of $1,256,923,036. The balance sheet also shows investments in securities and investments in improvements of affiliated companies amounting to $596,845,410.52 and in non-affiliated companies, including government bonds of $95,298,442.49.

Cash and other quick assets listed in the balance sheet total more than $86,000,000, reflecting the strong cash position of the company at the end of the year, compared with $72,000,000 in 1929. Total current assets amounted to $19,445,270 as against current liabilities of $74,658,486, while reserve amounted to $80,156,458.

The capital stock of the company, as revealed by the balance sheet, showed an increase during the year of $77,179,150, reflecting chiefly new capital stock issued to stockholders under the 1929 allotment of $71,836,050 at par of $50 per share. The total capital stock shown by the balance sheet is $651,935,550.

Among the items of long term debt reduced during 1929 was a $50,000,000 issue of Ten Year 7 percent gold bonds, which matured April 1, 1930 and which was paid off together with various other outstanding bonds, trust certificates and obligations which fell due during the year. Offsetting this decrease, the balance sheet shows a new $60,000,000 issue of Forty Year 4 1-2 percent gold debenture bonds due in 1970, which were issued mainly for additions, betterments and improvements to the property and equipment of the company.

The profit and loss balance as of December 31, 1930, was $236,042,388, an increase of $5,208,315 over the previous year.

Gold!
GOLD rushes are becoming as frequent as political investigations. Canada has had two quite recently, the United States several, Africa and Australia at least one apiece, and now comes Mexico with one of her own, which—reports are not exaggerated—is the largest and richest of the present crop.
The Mexican strike is said to be producing pay dirt worth $149,000 a ton and to be making fortunes for the discoverers of the vein, a grocery clerk and his friend and hundreds of Mexican peons.
If it is true that 33,000 claims have been staked out around the arroyo in which the first nuggets were found, the disappointed probably will far exceed the fortunate. For every one who comes away rich, thousands will slave and starve for days and weeks without finding their bonanza.
These gold strikes are welcome news to the world in the face of a threatened gold shortage. It is hoped they will produce enough gold to supply the growing needs of the gold standard countries, which now are troubled to know what to do if the emergency of a gold shortage is brought upon them.
There may always be gold rushes, but the Yukon, Klondike and '49 days seem to be ended for all time. The magic cry of "Gold!" no longer draws the treasure hunters across continents, although prospectors still answer the call from hundreds of miles and through desert and wilderness.

Pilgrimage
MEMORIAL Day will find another large contingent of Gold Star Mothers solemnly and tearfully treading the scenes of fatal conflict and the battlefields graves of beloved sons in France. This will be the second group of mothers of Americans buried in the war cemeteries of France to be taken abroad by the war department for what for many of them will be a last, lingering look upon the grave of a loved one who made the supreme sacrifice for his country.
These pilgrimages are in all respects a most gracious attention by the government and sympathetic government, and deserve the approval everywhere manifested.
Time has helped heal the poignancy of grief of those near and dear to the nation's young manhood who gave their lives in their country's service in 1917-18, while leaving undiminished the tender sentiment which leads mothers and widows to visit the field of battle in search of the spot where "he" fell and to kneel beside a white cross bearing "his" name and number.
Where the last resting place of the soldier dead lies thousands of miles away and beyond the seas, government owes to the Gold Star Mother one pilgrimage, even as it owes hospitalization to the disabled veteran and a pension to the dependents of the dead.

Rockne
FOOTBALL gave Knute Rockne away to the world and aviation took him away. It is probable that the world would never have heard of this master of the gridiron but for football, but while an airplane accident has taken him it could not efface his fame.
In the Valhalla of football heroes he will find none greater than himself, for he was both a great player and a great coach. It was he who were greater players, he was coach of many of them. As to his ranking as a coach it seems to be the unanimous opinion of all authorities that he was greater of all and that the college game has produced only one or two others worthy to be compared with him.
There has been much speculation as to the secret of his success. It was a football coach. Perhaps it was no secret. He required the sport to a science, required both brain and brawn in his players and his players early and trained them continuously but did not subordinate athletics to a academic activities.
It is a pity that Notre Dame under the Rockne regime escaped much of the unappreciated criticism directed in recent years against college football because of the so-called commercialization and exaltation of the sport.

"MURDER AT EAGLE'S NEST"

By WINIFRED VAN DUZER

Following a party at Eagle's Nest, the home of wealthy Emily Hardy, the Baroness von Wiese is found murdered. Bluma Martin, young newspaper reporter, nicknamed "Bim," a guest at the party, assists chief of police, Walter Vance, in solving the mystery. Bim identifies the shawl wrapped around the Baroness as Mary Frost's. Mary's husband, Ted, had been attentive to the Baroness. Bim had noticed Emily's butler and the Baroness, at the party, in secret conversation and recalled the maid's scream when she, too, found them together. A strip of uniform linen is found in the shrubbery. The police learn that the Baroness' maid was not in her room that night. The butler denies receiving a note from the Baroness. Bim discovers cuts on the maid's head and arm. She refrains from telling the police. The doors to the Baroness' room are found locked from the inside and her jewels stolen.

CHAPTER IX
THE maid stood there, lips working, eyes bulging in a horrified way, so white and trembling that Bim thought she surely would faint again. "There was a burglar," she managed to gasp, finally. "I thought—oh, I knew I heard someone—"
Reynolds was looking at the open case, mouth pursed, and Walter's eyes were upon the maid. Em kept wringing her hands and wailing, "This is awful—awful—what'll I do now?"
Suddenly Jane dashed to the window and leaned her hands on the sill, peering over. "It looks," she said in a muffled tone, "like something down there."
Breathless with excitement, Bim crowded in beside Jane, straining her eyes toward the bottom of the ravine. "It is something!" Walter, she cried, "I'm going down."
"Wait," he told her. "What do you say, Jim?"
Reynolds executed one of his fast shrugs and lighted a cigarette after half apologetic glance at Em. "Might be robbery," he conceded. "Someone takes a shot at the woman so she won't show up and squawk and then comes in and ransacks her room. eh? Maybe so. We'll get the hunt going just in case."

Nothing Overlooked
Bim saw at once that Reynolds placed small faith in the theory and she felt that Walter agreed with him. Nevertheless they would go through the process of throwing out a dragnet on the slight chance that some professional robber-killer had prowled through Eagle's Nest last night.
"No one is to leave town till we give the word," Walter instructed Em. "That understood?"
"Perfectly, Mr. Chief," Em belatedly. "I'll see to that."
"There's men here and there around your grounds to help," he stated dryly. "Feel like doing a little telephone now? I'd like to talk with the folks that ate dinner here last night. Tell them to come over but don't say why."
"I will," Em assured him delightedly. "I'll get them started right away."
Leaving Reynolds in charge of the house, Walter and Bim made a slow way to the bottom of the ravine where they found the just beneath the window of the room the Baroness had meant to occupy, the soft leather case lined with champagne which Jane had described.
"It's the emerald case," Bim said. "The robber must have thought it too easily identified and threw it out the window after he'd helped himself last night."
"Not last night, honey. This morning—after the sun was up. What kind of a detective-buff are you, anyway? Can't you see there's dew on everything and none at all on the case?"
"Walter," Bim began as he looked up the case gingerly, mindful of fingerprints which perhaps marked the leather. "What do you think about things?"

"It's the emerald case," Bim said.

"What would I think? A woman gets bumped and her jewels disappear. What about it, dim-wit?"
"You think it was robbery, then?"
"Looks like it. What would you say, Miss Sherlock Holmes?"
"Well, I," Bim drawled, "I'd say whoever it was she met in the garden could tell a story we'd like to hear."
"Check and double check. I can see you're going to be a great help to us, honey."
He grinned down at her, pausing to light a cigarette before they began to climb up the steep path from the ravine. "Who would you say that man was, girl friend?"
"It must have been someone in the house here, the one she sent the note by the red-haired butler. But why did he lie about it? And why didn't you make him tell?"
"Time enough for that, Bim. When you see more of this racket you'll know it's better sometimes to let them think they're getting away with it. They're liable to get careless and save the cops a lot of toil."
"I suppose so... Still there couldn't have been more than one she'd write that to. Let's see the note—what's left of it I mean."
He took the tattered, heel-marked scrap of paper from between the pages of his little book and they read the penciled scrawl together: "Must see you—cannot have forgotten—garden—dearest, dearest."
"If anyone else must have been someone she'd known a long while ago; that's what she meant by 'cannot have forgotten.' She must have been referring to something in the past; something they both would remember. It sounds to me as if she was pleading with him to remember."
"Maybe," Walter was hard to convince; he hadn't, Bim considered impatiently, too much imagination.

No Time for Love
"And it was someone she loved, at least she wanted to give that impression. That's why she repeated 'dearest, dearest.'"
"Thought you didn't know anything about love, Bim? Thought you said a girl with a career ahead of her couldn't bother with love?"
He still grinned though his eyes were serious, almost hurt.
"Walter, if you aren't the darndest! Here you go talking that way when we're at something terribly important. Can't you be serious at all?"
"I am serious. There's nothing more important than you and I, he said dejectedly. "The two of us together. Listen, honey; can't you change your mind? Suppose I get this cleared up all myself? Fury'd just have to quit; he hasn't turned a hand in years anyway. There I'd be with a swell salary—"

Theatres
AT THE CLIFTONA
A riot of fast-moving fun is "Going Wild," the first National Vitaphone feature which opened at the Cliftona Theatre.
The picture stars Joe E. Brown, the talking screen's most popular comedian, and the result is that there is scarcely a quiet minute in the house. "Going Wild" is an even funnier picture than Brown's two previous pictures, "Hold Everything" and "Top Speed," which set attendance records everywhere in the country and established Brown on the top rung of comedy.
"Going Wild" is a farce built around an airplane race. Brown is a newspaper reporter broke and out of a job who is en route to Florida with a companion, Lawrence Gray Brown, because of the author of a famous book on aviation and the whole town is at the station to greet him.
AT THE MET
The Met Theatre, stars Joseph Schildkraut in his first straight role in a smashing story of gangland and the newspaper game, a top-notch picture moving with high-gear speed and filled to the last inch of him with drama and suspense.
Schildkraut as a dapper star reporter is married on the night of his wedding by a gunman played by Edward G. Robinson, well known New York actor, who was imported from Broadway for the role. Schildkraut is taken for a ride gangland way of disposing of its enemies and the picture works rapidly to a thrilling and unexpected climax.
Some persons seem to be able to have a skeleton in the past without rattling the bones.
It depends on how a man is known if he can create an impression by seeming to be in a hurry.

BUDGET OF NATION TO BE CUT TO FIVE BILLIONS SAYS JONES

WASHINGTON. — Governmental expenditures next year will be held below the $5,000,000 mark if the budget bureau cooperates with congress in enforcing federal economies, Senator Wesley L. Jones.

Modern Wives realize importance of breakfast

BREAKFAST is probably the most important of all meals. Many families eat a hearty breakfast — yes. But all too often they miss getting the important minerals and vitamins which are so necessary to all-round health.

That's why many women now serve Kellogg's WHOLE WHEAT Biscuit every day. They have learned that two of these tempting biscuits with milk or cream supply 10 important mineral salts and 6 vitamins — actually more than a third of the average person's daily requirement.

Crisp double-toasted biscuit made of delicious wheat shreds. Certified for food value. Think of the healthfulness! Calcium and phosphorus for building good teeth. Protein for tissue. Chlorine. Iron. Copper. Vitamins. Order a red-and-green package from your grocer. Notice the certified food-value analysis on the side panel. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

chairman of the senate appropriations committee, predicted today.

This represented the attitude of administration leaders on Capitol Hill to the appeal of President Hoover for strict economy in future federal appropriation as a means of avoiding an increase in federal taxes. Jones rather resented the imputation that congress had been profligate in appropriations, pointing out that it has consistently slashed recommendations of the budget bureau.

After a visit to budget director Rop, Jones announced he expected both the government's estimates and the appropriations of congress would be held below the five-billion mark at the next session.

"The appropriations for ordinary purposes last year were slightly less than those of the preceding year," he explained. "The enormous total, exceeding $5,200,000,000, was necessary because of the emergency appropriations for the drought and unemployment relief. Most of these emergency appropriations will be avoided next year."

Figures for the first three quarters indicate that there will be a deficit of probably $800,000,000 on June 30, and that total receipts will amount to less than $3,500,000,000. Income taxes for the year are now figured at less than $1,900,000,000 compared with $2,410,000,000 last year.

Other forms of income also were on the decline. Customs receipts for nine months amounted to $290,106,000, a drop of $132,000,000 as foreign trade slumped to the lowest level in years. Miscellaneous internal revenue, which includes cigar and cigarette taxes, admission taxes and others, totaled $427,140,000, a decline of $39,000,000.

With the exception of interest and tax refunds all forms of government expense went up. Interest of $363,905,000 was $49,000,000 lower, while refunds amounting to $51,311,000 showed a drop of $46,000,000.

Operation of the government departments and bureaus cost $1,734,200,000, a jump of $114,000,000, while an additional $114,000,000 was taken from ordinary receipts to increase the adjusted service certificates payment fund, as a result of the higher loan value of loans to World war veterans authorized by congress. The total for the fund in nine months was $225,301,000.

The postal deficiency of $84,000,000 was $29,000,000 greater than last year while expenditures by the federal farm board of $139,300,000 showed an increase of $70,000,000.

The public debt March 31 stood at $162,582,800,000. An increase of $382,000,000 during the month, $556,000,000 since December 31 and $389,000,000 for the first nine months of the fiscal year.

Issues of $100,000,000 in bills going on the market today and tomorrow will boost the debt by that amount while a substantial offering of over $300,000,000 probably in certificates to be dated April 15 will be announced by Secretary Mellon next week. It appeared that the debt will be increased during the year by more than $700,000,000.

Public debt transactions for the nine months have amounted to over $9,000,000,000, with issues of $4,704,300,000 and retirements of $4,306,800,000. Bills and certificates amounting to $803,595,000 will mature in May and June. New issues to retire these securities must be authorized in addition to additional flotations to meet the excess of expenditures over ordinary receipts.

WHITE TO TALK ON ARBOR DAY

COLUMBUS. — Governor George White will speak on Arbor Day and its implication over Station WLW on the School of the Air program April 10, from 2 to 2:20 p. m. On the same program the new Ohio poem that is soon to be set to music will be read. This was the winning poem in the recent state-wide contest for a state song. Most of the schools in Ohio will not only have programs dealing with Arbor Day and the conservation of natural resources but will plant trees and makes studies having to do with the beautification of Ohio's communities.

FIND BUCKEYES IN OHIO SCARCE

COLUMBUS, O. — Director of Education J. L. Clifton today asked Ohio newspapers for aid in securing 1,000 buckeyes for Arbor Day planting. Little did Dr. Clifton think there would be such a great demand for buckeyes when he made the offer to furnish buckeyes to Ohioans who desired to plant them. Dr. Clifton said that the buckeye is a distinctive tree of Ohio and that many Ohioans now far removed from the native state carry in their pockets as a souvenir or memento a buckeye nut.

R. R. COMPANY PAYS MILLION

More than four and one half million dollars was paid in benefits to Pennsylvania Railroad employees and members of their families last year by the employees' voluntary relief department, it was revealed today in the department's annual report just completed by E. E. Hunt, superintendent.

Of the total payments, $1,959,000 was disbursed in death benefits, $2,414,000 for sickness and disability benefits, and $212,000 in the form of superannuation allowances to increase the pensions of retired employees who are members of the association. The entire year's benefits amounted to $4,586,240.

The voluntary relief department was organized 45 years ago as a permanent agency for welfare work on the Pennsylvania Railroad. It provides a relief fund from which employees may obtain for themselves and their families, through the payment of small monthly sums, cash benefits in the event of death, sickness or accident as well as pension payments after retirement additional to the usual pension paid by the company to all employees on its retired roll of honor.

The Pennsylvania Railroad bears the entire cost of operating the relief department, so that all dues are immediately applied to the payment of benefits. Since its organization the department has paid a total of $111,100,593 in benefits and allowances to employees and their families.

CHILDREN WITH HEART DISEASE ARE DISCUSSED

Children with heart disease need not be taught in separate classes, according to the findings of the cardiac, vocational - guidance service of the New York Tuberculosis and Health Association in its recent 10-year report. The records of 477 school children supervised by the service, selected for study because their histories were sufficiently complex, showed that very few had been excused for prolonged absence due to illness. All were excused from competitive games but few from gymnastic activities. It was also found that young patients with heart disease can work at a wide variety of occupations, and that those on light jobs were absent because of illness an average of only 14 days a year. 1930 THE BEST HEALTH YEAR

Measles, scarlet fever, whooping cough, and diphtheria are being rapidly conquered, according to a report in the recent Statistical Bulletin of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. The combined death rate among the company's policy holders for these four diseases was 26 per cent lower in 1930 than in 1929. The reduction in the diphtheria rate alone was considerably greater.

MOTHER'S AID IN PENNSYLVANIA

A campaign is in progress in Pennsylvania to increase the State appropriation for aid to mothers from the $2,750,000 fund for the two fiscal years 1929-1931 to $4,115,938 for 1931-1933. The chairman of the state-wide committee on mothers' assistance, says the F. C. A. (Public Charities Association) Herald of Philadelphia, pointed out that the State can help the unemployment situation by taking care of the large number of families on the waiting list for mothers' pensions and thus relieve local public and private welfare agencies so that they may carry on general unemployment relief.

AHL OVERRULES RAILROAD PLEA

BUCYRUS, O. Judge C. C. Ahl today overruled a motion by the New York Central Railroad to dissolve the temporary injunction granted the city of Bucyrus to prevent the railroad from closing its locomotive repair shops here and transferring the work to Col. linwood.

Attorneys for the New York

Central had contended that a contract entered into with the village of Bucyrus in 1880 and 1881 was illegal. Judge Ahl ruled, however, that the contract was binding, inasmuch as the state legislature in 1880 granted the village of Bucyrus to enter into such a contract with the railroad company.

Under the terms of the contract, Bucyrus in 1880 paid the railroad $50,000 in municipal bonds to erect its roundhouse and shops here, designating them as its sole construction and repair shops in Ohio and to man and operate them perpetually and keep them in repair.

Laundries join the campaign soft-collar shirts. There's no fun in wrecking an opponent who can't put up a stiff resistance.

Sharkey's After Schmeling Title

NEW YORK, April 3.—The heavyweight boxing situation was boiling today with the announcement that Jack Sharkey, American heavyweight champion, will make his next big fight at Ebbets Field, Brooklyn, on June 3, under the promotion of James J. Johnston.

Sharkey's opponent, according to Johnston, will be chosen from Primo Carnera, Tommy Loughran, Mickey Walker or Victoria Campolo. Final selection will not be made until April 15.

This announcement is Sharkey's opening gun in his battle to gain nationwide recognition over Max Schmeling, to whom he lost on a foul here last summer, as heavyweight champion. The winner of the June fight here undoubtedly will be recognized as champion by the New York State Athletic Commission, which stripped Schmeling of his crown because of his refusal to meet Sharkey again.

Sailor Jack already holds a decision over W. L. (Young) Stribling, slated to fight Schmeling in June in a middle western city. That many fight fans now regard the Boston tar as the uncrowned champion was made evident during Schmeling's recent unsuccessful tour of the south and southwest, when spectators at the German's exhibition bouts openly jeered him for ducking Sharkey.

The Milk Fund organization earlier this week withdrew from any participation in the Stribling-Schmeling bout, which will be sponsored by a subsidiary of the Madison Square Garden corporation of New York. William F. Carey, scheduled to arrive here today from the middle west, may formally announce the site of the match this afternoon. Tentatively the bout has been set for Cleveland on July 3.

Sharkey would like to take on Primo Carnera as his first opponent, but the giant Italian is under suspension here. So is Walker but the New York commission has stated it will reinstate him if he will relinquish the middleweight championship. Walker, it is understood, would readily comply with this request in order to get a crack at Sharkey.

The Milk Fund organization has Walker lined up and may cooperate with Johnston in staging a scrap between Mickey and Sharkey.

Both Loughran and Campolo are prepared to sever relations with Madison Square Garden to land a bout with Sharkey. Campolo's contract with the Garden calls for a total guarantee of $60,000 for his next two fights, and the Garden likely will release the Argentinian giant rather than take a chance on lining up two opponents who could draw enough at the gate to make the ventures profitable.

DON CLAIMS SPEED MARK

British Driver Claims to Have Beaten Gar Wood's Speed Boat Record.

BUENOS AIRES, April 3.—The world record for speed boats was in British hands again today after Kaye Don shot Miss England II over a measured course in the Parana river here to a new mark of 103.73 miles an hour.

His feat shattered the two-week-old record established by Gar Wood, American speed king, off Miami Beach.

Miss England II is the same boat that carried Major Sir Henry C. D. Segrave to his death last June. At that time a world record of 98 miles an hour was set. It stood until Wood shattered it with a speed of about 102 miles an hour.

Don drove his boat to victory in a rough river. Slight accidents and unfavorable conditions had forced him to postpone the attempt, causing rumors that he would abandon his efforts to break the record.

He brought his speedboat to Buenos Aires last month for the British trade exhibition. It was reconstructed and turned over to him after striking a submerged log on Lake Windermere, resulting in Segrave's death and the injury of two assistants.

The state of Nevada is building a 157-mile highway to be known as the Kit Carson Trail.

COUNTRY CLUB SEASON NEAR

Frank Casey To Be at Club Sundays if Weather Permits; Imier Assistant.

Frank Casey, Pickaway Country Club's professional golfer, announced Friday that beginning Sunday, weather permitting, he will be at the club to accommodate any golfers who want to prepare for the season's campaign.

On several of the fine days in the past few weeks, many golfers have been seen trekking over the course although the greens are not yet being played. The course at this time appears to be in excellent condition with greens, beginning to take on color. Last summer's drought put the course back considerably but with any kind of weather this spring everything is expected to be satisfactory. Several improvements have been made at various spots on the course during the winter.

No radical changes have been made in the course. No greens have been changed, although nearly all the tees have been made larger. A ladies' tee, used for the last few weeks last fall, at No. 5 will be in use generally this summer.

Casey announces that Bill Imier who has been a caddy since the club was opened, will be his assistant this summer. Young Imier shoots a good game of golf and should do well in his new position. He will succeed the pro's brother, Russell.

It is planned to provide a number of interesting matches for the local course this summer with many star golfers appearing here. Plans are now afoot for these matches. More inter-club matches will be played this summer than last with Washington C. H., Lancaster, Chillicothe and possibly Jackson on the schedule. These matches proved extremely popular last year when the local team split even with Washington C. H., winning here and losing there.

Rockne Funeral Saturday at 3

SOUTH BEND, Ind. Apr. 3.—Knut Rockne was back home today in Sunnyside, a silent host to his legion of friends.

In the attractively appointed living room of the stucco residence in Wayne-st they waited with Rock once again, still wondering why the referee had kicked him up beyond the final goal line.

Intimates who had sat in the same room with him in mellow times when in reveries—Clipp, the four horsemen and others of his handiwork had streaked across imaginary yard lines on the carpet, paid their silent tribute, bowed their head at the master's portrait on the wall and then moved on into the chilly day.

Tomorrow afternoon they'll rally behind Rock once again—marching shoulder to shoulder—when the trail leads to Highland cemetery after requiem services are held at 3 o'clock in the ancient church of the Sacred Heart on the campus.

Among the mourners were distinguished men, famous athletes and delegates, too, of King Haakon of Norway who bore tidings that Knute was to have been honored with knighthood by his native country.

How this Viking would have enjoyed that distinction, a royal member of the king's family.

Rock has kidded his close friends many times about King Haakon. He had said that some day he might bring a Notre Dame football eleven over there and play the home team on skates.

Dapper Jimmy Walker, Mayor of New York City, was expected during the day. Jimmy and Knute were pals. Rock had conferred on Jimmy the title of "assistant coach" after he had sat on the bench during an Army game in New York.

Standing as honor guard in two hour shifts were members of the monogram club of Notre Dame. Marjory Schwartz and Frank Cardo formed one duo.

Mrs. Lewis Rockne's, Rock's 72-year-old mother sat near her son. Her daughters and close friends comforted her. At intervals she shared her grief with Bonnie, Knute's widow. Bully, Knute Jr., Joan and Jack had not yet grasped the meaning of the situation.

Crowds moved in and out of the house during the morning. Telegrams from all parts of the country continued to pour in. Floral tributes were being heaped high around the room.

When Mrs. Rockne arrived in South Bend last night from Florida she discussed final plans with the Rev. Charles O'Donnell, president of the university. She said it was her wish that Rock be taken home.

Suggestions that the body lie in state under the golden dome of Notre Dame on the campus, and that requiem mass be celebrated and an altar either in the stadium or Ue field house, were considered but disapproved.

And so the plan is to hold the services in the vine-covered church where thousands of students have worshipped since 1871, and where Rock, too, had been a regular attendant during recent years.

The Rev. Michael Mulcaire, vice-president and chairman of the board of athletic control, will be in charge of the services. The Rev. Father Steiner and the Rev. Ray Murch will act as deacon and sub-deacon, respectively. Father O'Donnell will preach the sermon.

Pall bearers will be selected from members of the 1930 national champions. An honorary escort will not be named, Father O'Donnell said.

"Let us list all those who will attend as honorary pall bearers."

While thousands are expected to crowd the campus tomorrow only 1500 will be admitted to the church, and it is likely that admission will be by card only.

Meanwhile scores of coaches and former players were reported on their way to Notre Dame. Jimmy Phelan had started from Portland, Ore.; Charley Bachman from Florida; "Slip" Madigan from California; Harry Stuhldreher from Philadelphia; Elmer Layden from Pittsburgh and Don Miller from Defiance, Ohio. It is believed that by tomorrow practically every former coach and player will be here.

MEIGS COUNTY PRODUCES OIL

MIDDLEPORT, O. April—A gas well in the heart of this Meigs-county village proved to be a successful producer today and residents in all parts of the town began making plans to drill other wells from one end of Middleport to the other.

Excited at the possibility of finding hidden fortune, hundreds looked on to watch the first well when it started producing heavily although shot at only a depth of 617 feet.

Residents indicated that the entire village will be dotted with wells if production of the first well does not diminish.

Rockne's Death Proves Need of Perfect 'Chute

WASHINGTON—One of the greatest present day needs of commerce of a workable, automatically opening parachute which will give passengers protection in just such accidents as occurred to the Western Air Express plane in which Knute Rockne and seven others plunged to their deaths in Kansas, commerce department officials said today.

But thus far, they added, no such 'chute has been perfected. Aircraft manufacturers and experimenters have been working for sometime on the automatic parachute and demonstrations have been made indicating its possible practicability, but a device of this character has not been used commercially.

On the basis of reports available to the commerce department so far, some officials expressed doubt that parachutes would have been of value in saving the lives of Rockne and his fellow passengers. The reports indicate that whatever it was happened to the plane, it happened so quickly and at such low altitude that parachutes might have been valueless.

One of the difficulties present in the use of a parachute is that a ship must be at sufficient altitude when the jump is made to give the parachute an opportunity to open.

Another difficulty is for the jumper to clear the plane and to prevent any part of the parachute from becoming fouled. The present 'chutes, are manually operated, it being necessary for the jumper, after clearing aircraft, to pull a ring that the apparatus may open to carry him safely to the ground.

"The types of passengers who ride airplanes have a wide range from children to old men and women," said Frederic J. Neely, of the bureau of aeronautics. "It also includes many persons in the air but infrequently. The present parachute would be useless to them because they would be unable to use it, if, in fact, they were able to clear the plane."

"It would be impractical to train passengers in the use of a parachute before starting on a flight. The opinion among the air transport companies seems to be that the parachute is virtually useless except for experienced aviators."

A parachute weighs about 15

Dr. C. G. Stewart for sinus trouble, is getting along nicely.

Max Friedman has returned from New York City.

Miss Gertrude Pigman is spending the week-end at her home in Cincinnati.

Mrs. Lawrence Goeller and Mrs. George Deigarn were Columbus visitors Thursday.

Miss Lillian Jones of Cincinnati will spend Easter with her parents, Dr. and Mrs. Howard Jones.

Miss Elma Rains will spend Easter at her home in Columbus.

Isaac Dysinger, well-known Amanda resident, is critically ill at his home.

pounds. In a plane carrying from 10 to 15 persons the question of weight becomes a factor, although this was held to be a minor consideration to safety.

Experts are said to be working on a scheme whereby automatic parachutes make up the equipment of each passenger. If an accident should occur the pilot, by pulling a lever would release the 'chute of the plane dropping the occupants into space, to float to the earth.

Statistics show that by far the largest number of accidents occur on take-off and on landings, while parachutes would be without value. Many of the others occur at relatively low altitudes when airmen are flying low to avoid clouds. On the tragedy of over a year ago when a transport airplane crashed into a mountain in New Mexico is found another example of the uselessness of parachutes.
